News Collected At Random

The Jap attack on Pearl Harbor was a military disaster for this country. And yet losses in material were confined to a few hundred planes and comparatively few ships. If Pearl Harbor was a disaster, no words could possibly describe an enemy blitz that destroyed 27,618 medium tanks, 207,142 75 mm. guns, 98 heavy cruisers and 6-183 heavy bombers. But in the years between 1918 and 1939 property to the tune of $8,235,000,000 was destroyed in the United States by fire. These billions of dollars would have been sufficient to build the above fighting force.

This country has been very careless with fire. Too few people realize that fires can start without the application of flame. Spontaneous ignition is a phenomenon that occurs in oily clothes, mops or waste and paint-stained rags or clothing. Chemical reaction causes the material to heat up until actual fire bursts forth.

Let's be a little more careful about these things and cut down our fire losses.

London, April 17 (AP)—The fall of burning Sevastopol last major Axis bastion in southern Russia, appeared imminent today as Russian troops were reported smashing through the suburbs two miles from the heart of the city, while Soviet bombers and warships lashed at thousands of Germans and Romanians trying to escape by sea.

Field dispatches painted a scene of flaming chaos in the big Black sea port bombarded incessantly by Russian siege guns commanding the nearby hills and hounded by swarms of planes pouncing on Axis troops streaming for the last ships in a harbor strewn with wreckage and bodies.

Sweep Up Highway Towns
Rushing on the besieged city from the southeast, a Soviet communique said, one Russian column early last night swept up Yalta, once summer residence of the Czars, and today it was reported eating up the 30 miles of coastal highway separating it from Sevastopol. This force also captured nine other towns along the Russian "Riviera," the bulletin said.

Other troops were converging on Sevastopol from the mountains inland, moving along trails chosen to avoid elaborate German minefields and booby traps sowed along the roads in an attempt to gain time.

Altogether the Russians have seized 40,000 prisoners in the lightning eight-day conquest which has left the Germans holding only 150 square miles of the 9,900 square mile peninsula, the communique said.

Nazis Suffer "Crimean Sickness"

It quoted German prisoners as saying that the commander of the 98th infantry division and regimental commanders, routed on the Kerch peninsula, "fell sick with 'Crimean sickness' and flew off in a plane." It added that many other German generals "left their soldiers to their fate and deserted the Crimea."

When the Crimean tallies are completed, the Moscow-announced toll of Axis troops killed or captured since March 4 is expected to exceed 500,000.

A midnight bulletin last night also announced that Russian troops on the mainland had killed 1,800 Germans in a new drive which forced the lower Dnestr river in the Tiraspol sector, outflanking the rail junctions of Tighina and Chisinau in Bessarabia.

A Tass dispatch broadcast from Moscow last night said that a "large scale transfer of German troops from west to east is underway" and added that it was believed "the German general staff has been able to convince leading Nazi circles that from every point of view it would be more correct to weaken the western side of the European fortress."

The dispatch also indicated Russian impatience for the opening of the invasion from Britain.

Property Transfers

Roxie A. and Margaret A. Hoke, Hanover, sold to Ernest W. and Kathryn E. Knight, Detroit, a 213-acre property in Oxford and Berwick townships.

Annie Rebecca Sprankle, Hamiltonban township, and others, sold to Amos J. and Reathle G. Harshman, Washington township, Franklin county, a 103-acre property in Liberty and Hamiltonban townships.

Here And There News Collected At Random

The Jap attack on Pearl Harbor was a military disaster for this country. And yet losses in material were confined to a few hundred planes and comparatively few ships. If Pearl Harbor was a disaster, no words could possibly describe an enemy blitz that destroyed 27,618 medium tanks, 207,142 75 mm. guns, 98 heavy cruisers and 6,183 heavy bombers. But in the years between 1918 and 1939 property to the tune of $8,235,000,000 was destroyed in the United States by fire. These billions of dollars would have been sufficient to build the above fighting force.

This country has been very careless with fire. Too few people realize that fires can start without the application of flame. Spontaneous ignition is a phenomenon that occurs in oily clothes, mops or waste and paint-stained rags or clothing. Chemical reaction causes the material to heat up until actual fire bursts forth.

Let's be a little more careful about these things and cut down our fire losses.

London, April 17 (AP)—The fall of burning Sevastopol, last major Axis bastion in southern Russia, appeared imminent today as Russian troops were reported smashing through the suburbs two miles from the heart of the city, while Soviet bombers and warships lashed at thousands of Germans and Romanians trying to escape by sea.

Field dispatches painted a scene of flaming chaos in the big Black sea port bombarded incessantly by Russian siege guns commanding the nearby hills and hounded by swarms of planes pouncing on Axis troops streaming for the last ships in a harbor strewn with wreckage and bodies.

Sweep Up Highway Towns

Rushing on the besieged city from the southeast, a Soviet communique said, one Russian column early last night swept up Yalta, once summer residence of the Czars, and today it was reported eating up the 30 miles of coastal highway separating it from Sevastopol. This force also captured nine other towns along the Russian "Riviera," the bulletin said.

Other troops were converging on Sevastopol from the mountains inland, moving along trails chosen to avoid elaborate German minefields and booby traps sowed along the roads in an attempt to gain time.

Altogether the Russians have seized 40,000 prisoners in the lightning eight-day conquest which has left the Germans holding only 150 square miles of the 9,900 square mile peninsula, the communique said.

Nazis Suffer "Crimean Sickness"

It quoted German prisoners as saying that the commander of the 98th infantry division and regimental commanders, routed on the Kerch peninsula, "fell sick with 'Crimean sickness' and flew off in a plane." It added that many other German generals "left their soldiers to their fate and deserted the Crimea."

When the Crimean tallies are completed, the Moscow-announced toll of Axis troops killed or captured since March 4 is expected to exceed 500,000.

A midnight bulletin last night also announced that Russian troops on the mainland had killed 1,800 Germans in a new drive which forced the lower Dnestr river in the Tiraspol sector, outflanking the rail junctions of Tighina and Chisinau in Bessarabia.

A Tass dispatch broadcast from Moscow last night said that a "large scale transfer of German troops from west to east is underway" and added that it was believed "the German general staff has been able to convince leading Nazi circles that from every point of view it would be more correct to weaken the western side of the European fortress."

The dispatch also indicated Russian impatience for the opening of the invasion from Britain.

ALLIES BLAST FOE 100 MILES FROM RED FRONT

By LYNN HEINZERLING

Allied Headquarters, Naples, April 17 (AP)—Allied air power smashed yesterday at the former Yugoslav capital of Belgrade, the Romanian rail centers of Brasov and Turnu-Severin and last night at Budapest, Hungarian capital, in a Balkan bombardment pattern plainly designed to block supplies to the German armies breasting the Russian advance.

Brasov, an industrial city also known as Kronstadt, is 50 miles north of the Romanian oil center of Ploesti and only 100 miles from the Red Army front in Romania—the nearest American bombers have yet come to the Russian lines.

Cut Rail Lines

Brasov lies on the northern slope of the Transylvanian Alps, athwart the rail line used by the Germans to supply their troops fighting in northern Romania.

Lines to the west were cut in several places, it was said, and the rail station, the warehouse area, the locomotive depot, and oil refinery were hit.

RAP Wellingtons hit the Budapest rail yards and crewmen said new fires were started in the target area, bombed only four days ago by flying Fortresses and Liberators.

CRIMEAN FIGHT IS CLIMAX OF RUSSIAN DRIVE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

The bloody exhibition of warfare at close quarters, now being staged in the environs of the great Crimean naval base at Sevastopol as the Red forces fling themselves upon the cornered Hitlerites, naturally claims the main attention of a world which never ceases to thrill over brave deeds.

This battle represents the climax of the brilliant Soviet campaign which has broken Hitler's hold on southern Russia. When historic Sevastopol falls—as fall it must—it will restore to the Muscovites the Crimean peninsula, which has provided the Nazi dictator with a powerful air, naval and military base that has been a mighty asset to him in three ways:

It has shielded his right flank on the mainland. It long enabled him to continue his efforts (though ineffectually) to break into the Caucasian oil fields which he so badly needed. It has permitted him to control the northern waters of the Black sea and the vital coasts of Romania and Bulgaria.

Lwow To Be Next
Still, despite the claim of Sevastopol to the limelight, there's another great Red victory upon which the southeastern Polish front which we must not overlook. That's the capture of the strategic railway junction of Tarnopol after 38 days of fierce fighting in which the German garrison of 16,000 was annihilated, barring 2,400 who surrendered.

Some weeks ago I invited you to keep an eye on this battle as one of the highly important engagements of the war. Tarnopol has been the chief bulwark of the Hitlerian line between the Pripiet marshes on the north and the Carpathians on the south. That line has been a barrier to the heart of Poland—on the road to Berlin.

The capture of Tarnopol uncovers another even bigger prize—the great railway junction of Lwow a little to the west. This will be the next main objective of the Muscovites in that sector. The capture of Lwow should go far towards forcing the Germans to fall back to the line of the Vistula. It also certainly would expedite the Red drive through the Carpathians into Czechoslovakia at the extreme southern end of the Nazi battline.

Terrible Gamble
The tenacity with which the Hitlerites have been clinging to Tarnopol and the rest of the line between the Pripiet marshes and the Carpathians is clear indication of the importance they attach to this front. It means that if they have the reserves they will defend Lwow and other key points to the last ditch.

This question of reserves and materiel presents Hitler with a tough dilemma. Shall he take the chance of withdrawing troops from western Europe to meet the Russian menace on the eve of the invasion by the western Allies? It's a terrible gamble whichever way he plays it.

In this connection a Tass news agency dispatch, broadcast from Moscow last night, said a large scale transfer of German troops from west to east was under way. Tass quoted "private information" from Istanbul.

Despite the expenditure of strength by the Red armies in the Crimea and in the Tarnopol sector, the Russians have launched a new offensive against the Axis last night. The line which guards the entrance into Romania proper. Once the Muscovites complete their conquest of the Crimea, they will be able to bring fresh strength to bear in the battle of Romania.

the war on the Belgrade area. Flying Fortresses and Liberators struck the Zemun and Pancevo airdromes to the west and also dropped a few bombs on the Rogarski aircraft factory. At the Zemun airfield, hits were scored on the runways, shops and barracks. It was announced.

Belgrade Damaged

Belgrade, which has been German headquarters for all the Balkans since last October, was badly damaged by German bombers April 6, 1941, and 12,000 persons were reported killed.

Heavy damage was spread through the rail yards at Turnu Severin, bottleneck on the Romanian side of the vital Danubian "iron gate," by the Sunday daylight attack. RAF Wellingtons had hit similar targets there only the night before.

In a fourth daylight foray into the Balkans, other heavy bombers attacked the Yugoslav rail junction of Nis.

"This recent trend toward switching decisions is shaking the very foundations of jurisprudence," Welche declared. "Something must be done to stop it."

If travel is to be rationed this summer, as many columnists and feature writers report, but with no official statement out of Washington, the OPA is going to have a lot of headaches.

There are innumerable automobiles rolling through the streets today jam-packed with youngsters who are pleasure-bound for almost any place they want to go. And the question is often asked: "Where do they get gas?"

We can't answer that question, because we don't know. One thing for sure is that a good bit of that gasoline is not legal gas. . . . a good bit comes from careless owners of "T" stamps, because some of the drivers have freely admitted that much.

The gasoline problem is a serious one. . . . and it behooves all of us to do everything within our power to curb flagrant violation of its consumption.

Study Distribution Of Auto Business

Washington, April 17 (AP)—How to give everybody in the industry an even break on postwar business was the foremost question today as the automobile industry opened its first reconversion conference with war production directors.

Two major disagreements stood out: 1. Virtually the whole industry vs. Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the WPB, who says it is a "physical impossibility" to let every manufacturer start making motor cars at the same minute.

2. The big companies against the little firms, with the former holding out for unrestricted production from the start and the smaller concerns insisting that WPB should control early output and assign each maker the proportion of the business he had before the industry went to war 26 months ago.

CRIMEAN FIGHT IS CLIMAX OF RUSSIAN DRIVE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Associated Press War Analyst)

The bloody exhibition of warfare at close quarters, now being staged in the environs of the great Crimean naval base at Sevastopol as the Red forces fling themselves upon the cornered Hitlerites, naturally claims the main attention of a world which never ceases to thrill over brave deeds.

This battle represents the climax of the brilliant Soviet campaign which has broken Hitler's hold on southern Russia. When historic Sevastopol falls—as fall it must—it will restore to the Muscovites the Crimean peninsula, which has provided the Nazi dictator with a powerful air, naval and military base that has been a mighty asset to him in three ways:

It has shielded his right flank on the mainland. It long enabled him to continue his efforts (though ineffectually) to break into the Caucasian oil fields which he so badly needed. It has permitted him to control the northern waters of the Black sea and the vital coasts of Romania and Bulgaria.

Lwow To Be Next

Still, despite the claim of Sevastopol to the limelight, there's another great Red victory up on the southeastern Polish front which we must not overlook. That's the capture of the strategic railway junction of Tarnopol after 38 days of fierce fighting in which the German garrison of 16,000 was annihilated, barring 2,400 who surrendered.

Some weeks ago I invited you to keep an eye on this battle as one of the highly important engagements of the war. Tarnopol has been the chief bulwark of the Hitlerian line between the Pripiet marshes on the north and the Carpathians on the south. That line has been a barrier to the heart of Poland—on the road to Berlin.

The capture of Tarnopol uncovers another even bigger prize—the great railway junction of Lwow a little to the west. This will be the next main objective of the Muscovites in that sector. The capture of Lwow should go far towards forcing the Germans to fall back to the line of the Vistula. It also certainly would expedite the Red drive through the Carpathians into Czechoslovakia at the extreme southern end of the Nazi battlefield.

Terrible Gamble

The tenacity with which the Hitlerites have been clinging to Tarnopol and the rest of the line between the Pripiet marshes and the Carpathians is clear indication of the importance they attach to this front. It means that if they have the reserves they will defend Lwow and other key points to the last ditch.

This question of reserves and materiel presents Hitler with a tough dilemma. Shall he take the chance of withdrawing troops from western Europe to meet the Russian menace on the eve of the invasion by the western Allies? It's a terrible gamble whichever way he plays it.

In this connection a Tass news agency dispatch, broadcast from Moscow last night, said a large scale transfer of German troops from west to east was under way. Tass quoted "private information" from Istanbul.

Despite the expenditure of strength by the Red armies in the Crimea and in the Tarnopol sector, the Russians have launched a new offensive against the Axis Iasi-Chisinau line which guards the entrance into Romania proper. Once the Muscovites complete their conquest of the Crimea, they will be able to bring fresh strength to bear in the battle of Romania.

May Alter Supreme Court Procedure

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Seven different bills designed to alter supreme court procedure in handling cases—chiefly with the intent of speeding consideration—are pending before the senate and house judiciary committees.

One of the measures, offered by Rep. Welch (D-Ga) and backed by several bar associations, would require the agreement of seven of the nine justices before a prior ruling could be reversed.

"This recent trend toward switching decisions is shaking the very foundations of jurisprudence," Welch declared. "Something must be done to stop it."

He added he "certainly agreed" with Justice Roberts, who commented when the court overruled itself recently on the rights of negroes to participate in democratic primaries, that such reversals put court decisions "in the same class with a restricted railway ticket—good for this day and train only."

"The Wagner socialized medicine proposals are of concern to everyone . . . they are essentially a part of a general governmental pattern aimed at nearly all national activity."

If travel is to be rationed this summer, as many columnists and feature writers report . . . but with no official statement out of Washington . . . the OPA is going to have a lot of headaches.

There are innumerable automobiles rolling through the streets today jam-packed with youngsters who are pleasure-bound for almost any place they want to go. And the question is often asked: "Where do they get gas?"

We can't answer that question, because we don't know. One thing for sure is that a good bit of that gasoline is not legal gas . . . a good bit comes from careless owners of "T" stamps, because some of the drivers have freely admitted that much.

The gasoline problem is a serious one . . . and it behooves all of us to do everything within our power to curb flagrant violation of its consumption.

Study Distribution Of Auto Business

Washington, April 17 (AP)—How to give everybody in the industry an even break on postwar business was the foremost question today as the automobile industry opened its first reconversion conference with war production directors.

Two major disagreements stood out: 1. Virtually the whole industry vs. Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the WPB, who says it is a "physical impossibility" to let every manufacturer start making motor cars at the same time.

2. The big companies against the little firms, with the former holding out for unrestricted production from the start and the smaller concerns insisting that WPB should control early output and assign each maker the proportion of the business he had before the industry went to war 26 months ago.

DRAFT SEEN AS BIGGEST FACTOR IN LOOP RACES

By TED MEER

New York, April 17 (AP)—Major league baseball managers agreed today that draft uncertainties rather than actual playing ability, will have more bearing on the pennant races opening tomorrow with games at Washington, Boston, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, New York and Philadelphia.

The 16 leaders of the eight American and national league clubs, held by the Associated Press, also held a universal view that the season shapes up as one of the most unusual and interesting in the game's history.

In the words of Jimmy Wilson, manager of the 1943 fifth place Chicago Cubs: "Why go out on the limb and try to predict anything for this season? That's an impossibility. All clubs will be hit about the same during the campaign by Uncle Sam's call. The team with the most 4-F's may be on top at the finish, but they may even take 4-F's, so there you are again."

Here are comments from other managers:

American League
Joe McCarthy, New York, world champions—My kids have the spirit and heart of champions and they'll start digging in Tuesday and go all the way. Remember, we are the world champions and that makes us the team to beat.

Ossie Bluege, Washington, 2nd last year—I have every confidence in our pitching staff and believe our hitting will pick up enough to give the other clubs plenty of trouble.

Lou Boudreau, Cleveland, 3rd last year—We'll be lucky to finish in the first division.

Jimmy Dykes, Chicago, 4th last year—I look for a very interesting race, with the White Sox finishing respectably.

Steve O'Neill, Detroit, 5th last year—We may have a few surprises for those who think we are a second division club.

Luke Sewell, St. Louis, 6th last year—I can't tell you what the Browns will do this year, but I know darned well we won't be last.

Joe Cronin, Boston, 7th last year—Personal situation makes it look like close race all the way.

Connie Mack, Philadelphia, 8th last year—Other clubs will have more power, but I think we'll make up for that in spirit. Every player feels we have a chance to go somewhere.

National League
Billy Southworth, St. Louis, league champions—Not knowing what the other clubs have, I would prefer not to make any prediction on the outcome of the race this year.

Bill McKenchie, Cincinnati, 2nd last year—Uncertainty of times makes any prediction impossible.

Leo Durocher, Brooklyn, 3rd last year—The Cardinals still have so many of their first-line stars that you've got to rate them solid favorites. But if they were to lose a key man or two, as we've done, what a scramble that would make of the race!

Frankie Frisch, Pittsburgh, 4th last year—If we are able to hold our present players we should be okay. Our infield and outfield are impressive. The same goes for our catching.

Bob Coleman, Boston, 6th last year—We probably will do better than many think because of good pitching and tight defense.

Fredy Fitzsimmons, Philadelphia, 7th last year—Even at the rate we're losing men to the armed forces, it looks to me as though we're going to have a good club. At least as good as some of the others.

Mel Ott, New York, 8th last year—I think the race will be pretty close and not a runaway for the Cardinals as so many believe. If the Giants get pitching we will be up in the race all the way.

GOING TO MILK HEARING IN D.C.

Harrisburg, April 17 (AP)—Governor Martin and at least two of his department heads plan to represent the commonwealth next Friday at a federal hearing in Washington on Pennsylvania's request for authority to boost milk prices paid to farmers.

The two who are scheduled to accompany the Governor are Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture, and John W. McKee, chairman of the Milk Commission.

The date for the hearing was approved by Fred M. Vinson, national director of stabilization, Horst said.

The hearing was asked last November by the Governor after federal agencies withheld approval of the state Milk commission's order boosting retail prices and increasing income of the dairymen and farmers.

Horst added that representatives of 12 eastern states north of Virginia have also been invited to attend the hearing. The northeastern states met last year in Philadelphia in a discussion of the milk problem.

The agriculture secretary said the states want the federal officials to grant them "authority to work out their own problems," adding this would include the right to raise milk prices when and where needed.

The Mayflower was only 100 feet long, and 20 to 25 feet wide.

Cards Winners Of Pre-Season Series

New York, April 17 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, beaten in only one of seven games, have won the unofficial 1944 spring exhibition baseball championship.

On the basis of all games played in the curtailed spring competition, the National league champions finished on top with a percentage of .857.

Second place went to Cincinnati with five wins against one defeat for .833. Washington was third with 7-2 for .778; the New York Yankees fourth with 8-3 for .727; and Brooklyn fifth with 5-2 for .714.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, April 17 (AP)—Another major league season opens tomorrow and in place of the usual words of wisdom about who'll win the pennants, this corner offers a different prediction: If baseball does not have a successful season financially, you can hang the blame on managers, club owners, baseball writers, etc., who keep bringing up the fact that the teams are far below the usual standards. . . . Fans already have shown that they'll turn out in great numbers for almost any sort of a real contest, but they are likely to become discouraged if they hear repeatedly they can only see fourth-rate baseball. . . . After all, this year's teams will be playing one another, not the 1940 clubs. . . . Maybe Pete Krieg of Washington, D. C., has the right idea when he says: "Wars may come and wars may go—but baseball will go on 4-F'er and 4-F'er."

MATERIAL GAINS

Shag Shaughnessy, International league prexy who used to be quite a football player, likes to tell how he applied knowledge acquired building dugouts in France to football. . . . During the last war, dugouts discovered that if they left an air space between two layers of steel and dirt in a dugout roof, it would absorb the shock of a shell explosion. . . . When he returned to football with a couple of bunched-up shoulders, Shag remembered that and designed shoulder pads with a similar shock-absorbing space. They're almost universally used now. . . . One of the newest developments of this war, we hear, is a gunshot that automatically aims a machinegun the right distance ahead of a speeding plane. . . . Now if that could only be adapted to duck hunting.

MONDAY MATINEE

Bob Coleman, Braves manager, made his big league debut with Pittsburgh on June 13, 1913, and handled 13 chances against the Giants. Naturally his club lost. . . . The first year the National Collegiate AA basketball tournament was held it went into the red for about $2,500 out of a $7,000 bankroll that represented the accumulation of years in the treasury. It all has been paid back now, with plenty of interest. . . . The Boston Yankees, with no coach and no players, already have a one-boy football team in 12-year-old Parker Dweley of Belmont, Mass., who pestered Ted Collins with applications for the job of mascot until Ted signed him up.

SERVICE DEPT.

Although he's a mere private, Vic Hanson, former Syracuse grid coach, can associate on equal terms with colonels, lieutenants, etc. He's stationed at West Point and is helping the coaching staff with spring practice. . . . The Brooklyn Naval Armed Guard Center, which discovered during the winter that frequent personnel changes don't entirely wreck sports teams, is planning a big summer program with the idea of bidding for the Third Naval District Commandant's cup. . . . Cpl. Frankie Parker, the tennis star, has been helping with the construction of two clay courts at the Muroc, Calif., Air Base. . . . They'll have to do for 20,000 soldiers and Frank still has the job of locating racquets—balls, etc.

MacArthur Can Be Drafted, GOP Believes

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Republican party leaders heading for a pre-convention session in Chicago sought today to read between the lines of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's disavowal of presidential ambitions in an effort to determine whether he still could be regarded as a "draft" possibility.

Most of them were inclined to think he could be. They quoted from his statement—"I have not sought the office nor do I seek it"—as a plain indication that he might not be averse to letting the office seek him.

In 1601, the English army, to commemorate its victory at Kinsale, subscribed 1,800 pounds to establish a library in the University of Dublin.

WALLACE TO BE SUBSTITUTE ON FIRST PITCH

By PAT O'BRIEN

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Henry Agard Wallace flexed the muscles of his right arm today and declared himself ready to take over a traditional American role which William Howard Taft inaugurated more than 30 years ago.

It'll be Wallace's second appearance in pinch-pitching for President Roosevelt when he tosses out the first ball at the American league opener here tomorrow.

President Taft, back in 1911, accepted the idea that the White House occupant, as the No. 1 American citizen, should perform the No. 1 job on the No. 1 day of the No. 1 American sport.

Good—But Erratic

Woodrow Wilson, World War I President, took baseball seriously. Wilson wasn't a rabid fan, but figured the game was a part of American life that could not, and should not, be neglected. He threw what the baseball addicts at Griffith stadium call "an academic ball—right down the middle."

President Roosevelt, the baseball men say, is good, but erratic. A few years ago he aimed at the pitcher's box and hit a cameraman on the first base line.

President Calvin Coolidge carved his own unique niche in Washington baseball lore. It seems that "Silent Cal" was at a game in 1925 when the Washingtons and the New Yorks were in a tough pennant fight. The score was tied in the ninth inning, the bases were full, two were out, Walter Johnson was pitching and Babe Ruth was at bat. Coolidge got up and left—he said it was time for supper.

Will Leahy Lead Iowa?

Chicago, April 17 (AP)—Will Frank Leahy, Notre Dame football coach, lead the Iowa pre-flight Seahawks next fall? Rumors to that effect have been floating around midwest sports circles the last few weeks, and today it appeared well within the realm of possibility.

The Rev. John J. Kavanaugh, Notre Dame vice president and chairman of the Faculty Board of Athletic Control, revealed Saturday that the Irish coach and athletic director has applied for a Navy commission. Over the week-end Leahy was in Chicago, headquarters of Navy officer procurement for this area. But he was unavailable for comment.

Conceivably he could wind up at the Navy's pre-flight school at Iowa City. The coaching post there has been vacant since Lt. Don Faurot, whose Hawks lost a bitter 14-13 battle to Notre Dame last November for their only defeat of the season, was transferred several months ago to Monmouth (Ill.) college.

Should he receive a commission one of the game's most successful big time coaching careers would be interrupted. In five years—three at Notre Dame and two at Boston—Leahy teams have won 44 games, lost five and tied three. His stay at South Bend brought 24 victories, three defeats and as many ties.

SPORT SHORTS

Pawtucket, R. I., April 17 (AP)—Paul Kelper, of Eustis, Neb., was the leading jockey on the nation's race tracks yesterday. He rode three winners, two seconds and two thirds at Narragansett park.

Commando Tom, $3.80; Prissy Miss $11.80 and Jack Vennie $3.60 formed his triple.

Philadelphia, April 17 (AP)—Coach George Munger called spring football practice at the University of Pennsylvania today—the first spring practice for Penn in two years.

Approximately 50 Navy V-12 and sub-draft age civilian students reported on River field. Munger said the only holdovers from last season's squad are halfback Richard Ambrog; John Small, 17-year-old fullback; quarterback Ted Tussing and guards Ray Stengel and Walt Stickle.

Wilmington, Del., April 17 (AP)—If an experiment now being performed by the Hercules powder company is successful an outdoor athletic event cancelled because of wet grounds may become an oddity.

A section of the Wilmington park, home of the Blue Rocks of the class B Interstate baseball league, is being treated with water-bol, a resin powder for waterproofing soils. If stablino works, coaches can stop worrying about the effects of pre-game showers on the playing field.

Santa Cruz, Calif., April 17 (AP)—Len Noren, 16, pitched a no-run, no-hit game Saturday as Santa Cruz high school defeated Monterey high school 20 to 0.

Noren fanned 18 batters and threw out at first base the other three who faced him in the seven-inning game.

Williams Slight Favorite Tonight

Philadelphia, April 17 (AP)—It may be his manager's boundless confidence, or it may be Mike Della's highly explosive fists, but 5 would get you a measly 8 today if you thought the Los Angeles lar-ruper was a better man than Trenton Ike Williams.

The odds in tonight's lightweight fray at the arena had begun to sag from 5 to 1 even before Della's manager, Freddy Sommers, predicted that the spindly Williams would be nothing but K. O. victim No. 31 in 40 bouts for his boy.

And if Sommers' boast failed to impress Williams—who has won 38 of his 42 starts, 21 of them by knockouts—it had the ring of sound prophecy to many who saw Della send one Dusty Brown, nobody's punching bag, to dreamland in the third round in his only previous appearance here.

Williams' stock dropped locally after Bob Montgomery blitzed him in the 12th round last January, although the Trenton negro has knocked out three opponents, including the redoubtable Joey Peralta, since then.

SET NEW MARKS AT SWIM MEET

Oakland, Calif., April 17 (AP)—The Multnomah club of Portland, Oregon, carried off the team title of the national women's senior AAU swimming and diving championships here last night as 18-year-old Miss Ann Curtis of San Francisco's Crystal Palace Plunge established two new American records in one race.

Miss Curtis, who set an American record of 5:21.7 in the 440-yard freestyle Saturday, set new marks as clockers caught her at 2:28.3 in the 200 meters free style and then went on to finish the 220 yards in the time of 2:29.2. The old record for both distances was 2:30.3 held by Brenda Heiser of the Multnomah club, who set the pace last night but dropped behind after 150 yards.

High point trophy went to Miss Curtis with 13 points. Nancy Merck of Portland, was second with 12; in third place was Joan Fogle, of Indianapolis, with 11 and fourth was Ann Ross, Brooklyn, with 10 points gained by winning both diving events.

Multnomah's 47 points in the team championships was well ahead of the second place Women's Swimming association of New York with 34. Crystal Palace Plunge of San Francisco was third with 24.

RAYBURN SEES WAR TO BE LONG

Reading, Pa., April 17 (AP)—"I would not be candid if I said this is going to be a short war," Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), speaker of the House representatives told delegates to a three-day conference of the 179th District of Rotary International.

"I think it is going to take the patriotism, the might, the labor, and the love of every human being to win this gigantic struggle and again make the world a safe place in which to live," he said in the opening address before the conference last night.

Stating that the task at home is not an easy one, Rayburn said the war cannot be won today, this year, or the next year with the "indifference that has been manifested."

He denounced the "stay-at-homes who complain of the sacrifices they are making," adding that they do not recognize the difference between real sacrifice and slight inconvenience.

Major Gen. George F. Lull, deputy surgeon general of the U. S. Army, who preceded Rayburn, told the 1,000 delegates "there will be more men returning with lost limbs than in the previous war." He said this was true because many who lost limbs in the last war "were not saved as they are and will be now."

Unemployment Seen After War By Farley

Oneida, N. Y., April 17 (AP)—Predicting "millions of people . . . thrown out of work" with the war's end, former Post-master General James A. Farley urges industry to prepare now to changeover quickly from war to peace-time production.

Else, he asks: "With a probable 300 billion dollar debt how will the country resort to another WPA?"

"We can't let people starve. People don't starve peacefully," the New York state and former national Democratic chairman added last night at the annual dinner of the St. Patrick's church Holy Name Society.

EX-BULLET STAR IS COMMISSIONED

Schuylkill Haven, Pa., April 17—Lieutenant Hugh H. Hoke, former Gettysburg college all-around athlete, later pilot of the Schuylkill Haven "Coolerators," the Tri-County Professional Basketball League champions, has been commissioned in the Navy, and is stationed at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Generals Witness Sergeants' Wedding

London, April 17 (AP)—An American Army sergeant was married today to a British WAAP sergeant—in the presence of four generals.

The principals in the wedding were Sergeant Thomas Isabel of Earl, Ark., and Sgt. Joyce Millicent Kelley.

The high-ranking guests were Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, commander of the U. S. Strategic Airforces, for whom Isabel chauffeured, Maj. Gen. Frederick L. Anderson, and Brig. Gen. Theodore Curtis and George McDonald, all of the U. S. Air Forces in Britain.

Best man was Sgt. Thomas Gresham, of Sacul, Tex., cook for Lt. Gen. Spaatz.

LARGEST LAND TRANSPORT SHIP ON LONG FLIGHT

Burbank, Calif., April 17 (AP)—The Lockheed Constellation, a winged colossus described by its builders as the largest land transport plane, soared into the air before dawn today and headed for Washington, D. C., on its first long-distance flight.

Howard Hughes, millionaire sportsman, movie maker and aviation enthusiast, and Jack Frye, president of T. W. A., were among 17 persons aboard. Hughes and Frye supervised the design of the plane, constructed by Lockheed Aircraft Corp., for T. W. A.

A T. W. A. spokesman said the four engine aerial giant, built to carry 57 passengers, will be turned over to the Army Air transport command. After the war T. W. A. plans to use constellations in its transport service.

Flies Over 300 M. P. H.

Hughes and Frye were at the controls at the takeoff, as co-captains. The passengers aboard were TWA and Lockheed technicians, excepting S. J. Solomon, of Silver Spring, Md., chairman of the Airline Committee for U. S. Air Policy, representing 17 U. S. air carriers in drafting American post-war international air policy.

The plane carried gasoline enough for a non-stop flight, a TWA spokesman said, and any landings en route will depend upon weather and plane performance.

The ship's four 18-cylinder engines develop 880 horsepower each, and its speed is in excess of 300 miles an hour, Lockheed officials asserted. Its weight is 40 tons.

Travels "Above The Weather"

The craft, under construction for two years, had made only short test flights previously. It is the second model built by Lockheed, whose spokesman said that in size the constellation is exceeded by only the B-29, a military plane.

The first Constellation made its initial flight Jan. 9, 1943, after which test pilots termed it the largest, fastest and most powerful of land based cargo or transport ships. The plane, engineers said, will cross the continent in 8½ hours or fly to Honolulu in 12.

Fashioned along same slim lines of a fighter plane, the Constellation was planned for "over the weather" altitudes up to 30,000 feet, engineered to maintain a 25,000-foot altitude on three engines, 16,500 feet on two, and aerodynamically geared for landing speeds as low as 77 miles an hour.

MARTIN CALLS ON STATE AFL FOR NEW RECORD

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 17 (AP)—"Urging and pleading" that labor "set new records in 1944 in the production of critical war material," Governor Martin told the Pennsylvania federation of labor today that the enemy "rejoices" in strikes "as a sign of weakness and disunity."

"In America we believe in labor organizations, in their right to strike and in their right to collective bargaining," Martin said in an address prepared for the AFL organization's opening session. "These rights, however, entail a public obligation. If the leaders of labor in America fail to recognize this obligation, they may spell the destruction of organized labor in America, which will be detrimental to us all."

"Too many strikes," he continued, "are unpopular and against public policy, x x x after Pearl Harbor labor pledged fewer strikes. What is the record?"

Merit On Both Sides

"In November, 1942, we had 144 strikes; and in November, 1943, we had 300 strikes."

"In November, 1942, our strike-idle workers numbered about 52,000; and in November, 1943, they numbered 10 times as many."

"In November, 1942, we lost less than 130,000 man-days; but in November, 1943, we lost the enormous total of nearly 3,000,000 man-days."

"Doubtless there was merit on both sides of these arguments," the governor commented, "but the enemy rejoices in them as a sign of weakness and disunity."

Martin said that in the first two years of the war "able management, abundance of capital and skilled workers, backed by American will and enthusiasm, had done as much as Germany did in nine years, Russia in 20 and Japan in 25."

SERVICE TEAMS MAY TAKE PART IN SPIC MEET

At least four of the eight schools in the Southern Pennsylvania interscholastic Conference will send track and field teams to Waynesboro Friday night, May 5, to compete in the South Penn Conference meet.

In addition to the events in the South Penn meet, three special events are being planned for service teams. Twenty-seven Army, Naval and Coast Guard stations have been invited to participate in the meet. At last three have already replied as being interested. It is expected that Fort Belvoir, Virginia; Olmstead Field, Middletown and Letterkenny Ordnance Depot will send teams here to compete in a special 100-yard dash, 220 yard dash and mile run. Individual trophies will be given the winners of the events.

In the South Penn meeting, Waynesboro will be host team to Gettysburg, Carlisle and Hanover. It is possible that at least one other team may be entered.

Waynesboro's season opens Friday.

DRAFT SEEN AS BIGGEST FACTOR IN LOOP RACES

By TED MEIR

Predy Fitzsimmons, Philadelphia, 7th last year—Even at the rate we're losing men to the armed forces, it looks to me as though we're going to have a good club. At least as good as some of the others.

Mel Ott, New York, 8th last year—I think the race will be pretty close and so a runaway for the Cardinals as so many believe. If the Giants get pitching we will be up in the race all the way.

GOING TO MILK HEARING IN D.C.

Harrisburg, April 17 (AP)—Governor Martin and at least two of his department heads plan to represent the commonwealth next Friday at a federal hearing in Washington on Pennsylvania's request for authority to boost milk prices paid to farmers.

The two who are scheduled to accompany the Governor are Miles Horst, secretary of agriculture, and John W. McKee, chairman of the Milk Commission.

The date for the hearing was approved by Fred M. Vinson, national director of stabilization, Horst said.

The hearing was asked last November by the Governor after federal agencies withheld approval of the state Milk commission's order boosting retail prices and increasing income of the dairymen and farmers.

Horst added that representatives of 12 eastern states north of Virginia have also been invited to attend the hearing. The northeastern states met late last year in Philadelphia in a discussion of the milk problem.

The agriculture secretary said the states want the federal officials to grant them "authority to work out their own problems," adding this would include the right to raise milk prices when and where needed.

The Mayflower was only 100 feet long, and 20 to 25 feet wide.

Cards Winners Of Pre-Season Series

New York, April 17 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, beaten in only one of seven games, have won the unofficial 1944 spring exhibition baseball championship.

On the basis of all games played in the curtailed spring competition, the National League champions finished on top with a percentage of .857.

Second place went to Cincinnati with five wins against one defeat for .833. Washington was third with 7-2 for .778; the New York Yankees fourth with 8-3 for .727; and Brooklyn fifth with 5-2 for .714.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, April 17 (AP)—Another major league season opens tomorrow and in place of the usual words of wisdom about who'll win the pennants, this corner offers a different prediction: If baseball does not have a successful season financially, you can hang the blame on managers, club owners, baseball writers, etc., who keep bringing up the fact that the teams are far below the usual standards. . . . Fans already have shown that they'll turn out in great numbers for almost any sort of a real contest, but they are liable to become discouraged if they hear repeatedly they can only see fourth-rate baseball. . . . After all, this year's teams will be playing one another, not the 1940 clubs. . . . Maybe Pete Krieg of Washington, D. C., has the right idea when he says: "Wars may come and wars may go—but baseball will go on 4-fer and 4-fer."

Ossie Bluege, Washington, 2nd last year—I have every confidence in our pitching staff and believe our hitting will pick up enough to give the other clubs plenty of trouble.

Lou Boudreau, Cleveland, 3rd last year—We'll be lucky to finish in the first division.

Jimmy Dykes, Chicago, 4th last year—I look for a very interesting race, with the White Sox finishing respectably.

Steve O'Neill, Detroit, 5th last year—We may have a few surprises for those who think we are a second division club.

Luke Sewell, St. Louis, 6th last year—I can't tell you what the Browns will do this year, but I know darned well we won't be last.

Joe Cronin, Boston, 7th last year—Personal situation makes it look like close race all the way.

Connie Mack, Philadelphia, 8th last year—Other clubs will have more power, but I think we'll make up for that in spirit. Every player feels we have a chance to go somewhere.

Billy Southworth, St. Louis, league champions—Not knowing what the other clubs have, I would prefer not to make any prediction on the outcome of the race this year.

Bill McKechnie, Cincinnati, 2nd last year—Uncertainty of times makes any prediction impossible.

Leo Durocher, Brooklyn, 3rd last year—The Cardinals still have so many of their first-line stars that you've got to rate them solid favorites. But if they were to lose a key man or two, as we've done, what a scramble that would make of the race!

Frankie Frisch, Pittsburgh, 4th last year—If we are able to hold our present players we should be okay. Our infield and outfield are impressive. The same goes for our catching.

Bob Coleman, Boston, 6th last year—We probably will do better than many think because of good pitching and tight defense.

Predy Fitzsimmons, Philadelphia, 7th last year—Even at the rate we're losing men to the armed forces, it looks to me as though we're going to have a good club. At least as good as some of the others.

Mel Ott, New York, 8th last year—I think the race will be pretty close and so a runaway for the Cardinals as so many believe. If the Giants get pitching we will be up in the race all the way.

MacArthur Can Be Drafted, GOP Believes

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Republican party leaders heading for a pre-convention session in Chicago sought today to read between the lines of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's disavowal of presidential ambitions in an effort to determine whether he still could be regarded as a "draft" possibility.

Most of them were inclined to think he could be. They quoted from his statement—"I have not sought the office nor do I seek it"—as a plain indication that he might not be averse to letting the office seek him.

In 1601, the English army, to commemorate its victory at Kinsale, subscribed 1,800 pounds to establish a library in the University of Dublin.

WALLACE TO BE SUBSTITUTE ON FIRST PITCH

By PAT O'BRIEN

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Henry Asard Wallace flexed the muscles of his right arm today and declared himself ready to take over a traditional American role which William Howard Taft inaugurated more than 30 years ago.

It'll be Wallace's second appearance in pinch-pitching for President Roosevelt when he tosses out the first ball at the American league opener here tomorrow.

President Taft, back in 1911, accepted the idea that the White House occupant, as the No. 1 American citizen, should perform the No. 1 job on the No. 1 day of the No. 1 American sport.

Good—But Erratic

Woodrow Wilson, World War I President, took baseball seriously. Wilson wasn't a rabid fan, but figured the game was a part of American life that could not, and should not, be neglected. He threw what the baseball addicts at Griffith stadium call "an academic ball—right down the middle."

President Roosevelt, the baseball men say, is good, but erratic. A few years ago he aimed at the pitcher's box and hit a cameraman on the first base line.

President Calvin Coolidge carved his own unique niche in Washington baseball lore. It seems that "Silent Cal" was at a game in 1925 when the Washingtons and the New Yorks were in a tough penton. The score was tied in the ninth inning, the bases were full, two were out, Walter Johnson was pitching and Babe Ruth was at bat. Coolidge got up and left—he said it was time for supper.

WILL LEAHY LEAD IOWA?

Chicago, April 17 (AP)—Will Frank Leahy, Notre Dame football coach, lead the Iowa pre-flight Seahawks next fall? Rumors to that effect have been floating around midwest sports circles the last few weeks, and today it appeared well within the realm of possibility.

The Rev. John J. Kavanaugh, Notre Dame vice president and chairman of the Faculty Board of Athletic Control, revealed Saturday that the Irish coach and athletic director has applied for a Navy commission. Over the week-end Leahy was in Chicago, headquarters of Navy officer procurement for this area. But he was unavailable for comment.

Conceivably he could wind up at the Navy's pre-flight school at Iowa City. The coaching post there has been vacant since Lt. Don Faurot, whose Hawks lost a bitter 14-13 battle to Notre Dame last November for their only defeat of the season, was transferred several months ago to Monmouth (Ill.) college.

Should he receive a commission one of the game's most successful big time coaching careers would be interrupted. In five years—three at Notre Dame and two at Boston—Leahy teams have won 44 games, lost five and tied three. His stay at South Bend brought 24 victories, three defeats and as many ties.

SPORT SHORTS

Pawtucket, R. I., April 17 (AP)—Paul Keiper, of Eustis, Neb., was the leading jockey on the nation's race tracks yesterday. He rode three winners, two seconds and two thirds at Narragansett park. Commando Tom, $3.80; Prissy Miss $11.80 and Jack Vennie $8.60 formed his triple.

Philadelphia, April 17 (AP)—Coach George Munger called spring football practice at the University of Pennsylvania today—the first spring practice for Penn in two years.

Approximately 50 Navy V-12 and sub-draft age civilian students reported on River field. Munger said the only holdovers from last season's squad are halfback Richard Ambrogio; John Small, 17-year-old fullback; quarterback Ted Tussing and guards Ray Stengel and Walt Stickel.

Wilmington, Del., April 17 (AP)—If an experiment now being performed by the Hercules powder company is successful, an outdoor athletic event cancelled because of wet grounds may become an oddity.

A section of the Wilmington ball park, home of the Blue Rocks of the class B interstate baseball league, is being treated with stabinol, a resin powder for waterproofing soils. If stabinol works, coaches can stop worrying about the effects of pre-game showers on the playing field.

Santa Cruz, Calif., April 17 (AP)—Len Noren, 18, pitched a no-run, no-hit game Saturday as Santa Cruz high school defeated Monterey high school 20 to 0.

Noren fanned 18 batters and threw out at first base the other three who faced him in the seven-inning game.

Williams Slight Favorite Tonight

Philadelphia, April 17 (AP)—It may be his manager's boundless confidence, or it may be Mike Della's highly explosive fists, but 5 would get you a measly 8 today if you thought the Los Angeles larriper was a better man than Trenton Ike Williams.

The odds in tonight's lightweight fray at the arena had begun to sag from 5 to 1 even before Della's manager, Freddy Sommers, predicted that the spindly Williams would be nothing but K. O. victim No. 31 in 40 bouts for his boy.

And if Sommers' boast failed to impress Williams—who has won 38 of his 42 starts, 21 of them by knockouts—it had the ring of sound prophecy to many who saw Della send one Dusty Brown, nobody's punching bag, to dreamland in the third round in his only previous appearance here.

Williams' stock dropped locally after Bob Montgomery blitzed him in the 12th round last January, although the Trenton negro has knocked out three opponents, including the redoubtable Joey Peralta, since then.

SET NEW MARKS AT SWIM MEET

Oakland, Calif., April 17 (AP)—The Multnomah club of Portland, Oregon, carried off the team title of the national women's senior AAU swimming and diving championships here last night as 18-year-old Miss Ann Curtis of San Francisco's Crystal Palace Plunge established two new American records in one race.

Miss Curtis, who set an American record of 5:21.7 in the 440-yard freestyle Saturday, set new marks as clockers caught her at 2:28.3 in the 200 meters free style and then went on to finish the 220 yards in the time of 2:29.2. The old record for both distances was 2:30.3 held by Brenda Heiser of the Multnomah club, who set the pace last night but dropped behind after 150 yards.

High point trophy went to Miss Curtis with 13 points. Nancy Merkl of Portland, was second with 12; in third place was Joan Fogle, of Indianapolis, with 11 and fourth was Ann Ross, Brooklyn, with 10 points gained by winning both diving events.

Multnomah's 47 points in the team championships was well ahead of the second place Women's Swimming association of New York with 34. Crystal Palace Plunge of San Francisco was third with 24.

RAYBURN SEES WAR TO BE LONG

Reading, Pa., April 17 (AP)—"I would not be candid if I said this is going to be a short war," Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), speaker of the House representatives told delegates to a three-day conference of the 179th District of Rotary International.

"I think it is going to take the patriotism, the might, the labor, and the love of every human being to win this gigantic struggle and again make the world a safe place in which to live," he said in the opening address before the conference last night.

Stating that the task at home is not an easy one, Rayburn said the war cannot be won today, this year, or the next year with the "indifference that has been manifested."

He denounced the "stay-at-homes who complain of the sacrifices they are making," adding that they do not recognize the difference between real sacrifice and slight inconvenience.

Major Gen. George F. Lull, deputy surgeon general of the U. S. Army, who preceded Rayburn, told the 1,000 delegates "there will be more men returning with lost limbs than in the previous war." He said this was true because many who lost limbs in the last war "were not saved as they are and will be now."

Unemployment Seen After War By Farley

Oneida, N. Y., April 17 (AP)—Predicting "millions of people" thrown out of work "with the war's end, former Post-master General James A. Farley urges industry to prepare now to changeover quickly from war to peace-time production.

Else, he asks: "With a probable 300 billion dollar debt how will the country resort to another WPA?"

"We can't let people starve. People don't starve peacefully," the New York state and former national Democratic chairman added last night at the annual dinner of the St. Patrick's church Holy Name Society.

Generals Witness Sergeants' Wedding

London, April 17 (AP)—An American Army sergeant was married today to a British WAFF sergeant—in the presence of four generals.

The principals in the wedding were Sergeant Thomas Isabel of Earl, Ark., and Sgt. Joyce Millicent Kelley.

The high-ranking guests were Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, commander of the U. S. Strategic Airforces, for whom Isabel chauffeurs, Maj. Gen. Frederick L. Anderson, and Brig. Gen. Theodore Curtis and George McDonald, all of the U. S. Air Forces in Britain.

Best man was Sgt. Thomas Graham, of Sacul, Tex., cook for Lt. Gen. Spaatz.

LARGEST LAND TRANSPORT SHIP ON LONG FLIGHT

Burbank, Calif., April 17 (AP)—The Lockheed Constellation, a winged colossus described by its builders as the largest land transport plane, soared into the air before dawn today and headed for Washington, D. C., on its first long-distance flight.

Howard Hughes, millionaire sportsman, movie maker and aviation enthusiast, and Jack Frye, president of T. W. A., were among 17 persons aboard. Hughes and Frye supervised the design of the plane, constructed by Lockheed Aircraft Corp., for T. W. A.

A T. W. A. spokesman said the four engine aerial giant, built to carry 57 passengers, will be turned over to the Army Air transport command. After the war T. W. A. plans to use constellations in its transport service.

Flies Over 300 M. P. H.

Hughes and Frye were at the controls at the takeoff, as co-captains. The passengers aboard were TWA and Lockheed technicians, excepting S. J. Solomon, of Silver Spring, Md., chairman of the Airline Committee for U. S. Air Policy, representing 17 U. S. air carriers in drafting American post-war international air policy.

The plane carried gasoline enough for a non-stop flight, a TWA spokesman said, and any landings en route will depend upon weather and plane performance.

The ship's four 18-cylinder engines develop 880 horsepower each, and its speed is in excess of 300 miles an hour, Lockheed officials asserted. Its weight is 40 tons.

Travels 'Above The Weather'

The craft, under construction for two years, had made only short test flights previously. It is the second model built by Lockheed, whose spokesman said that in size the constellation is exceeded by only the B-29, a military plane.

The first Constellation made its initial flight Jan. 9, 1943, after which test pilots termed it the largest, fastest and most powerful of land based cargo or transport ships. The plane, engineers said, will cross the continent in 8½ hours or fly to Honolulu in 12.

Fashioned along same slim lines of a fighter plane, the Constellation was planned for "over the weather" altitudes up to 30,000 feet, engineered to maintain a 25,000-foot altitude on three engines, 16,500 feet on two, and aeronautically geared for landing speeds as low as 77 miles an hour.

MARTIN CALLS ON STATE AFL FOR NEW RECORD

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 17 (AP)—"Urging and pleading" that labor "set new records in 1944 in the production of critical war material," Governor Martin told the Pennsylvania federation of labor today that the enemy "rejoices" in strikes "as a sign of weakness and disunity."

"In America we believe in labor organizations, in their right to strike and in their right to collective bargaining," Martin said in an address prepared for the AFL organization's opening session. "These rights, however, entail a public obligation. If the leaders of labor in America fail to recognize this obligation, they may spell the destruction of organized labor in America, which will be detrimental to us all."

"Too many strikes," he continued, "are unpopular and against public policy. x x x after Pearl Harbor labor pledged fewer strikes. What is the record?"

"In November, 1942, we had 144 strikes; and in November, 1943, we had 300 strikes."

"In November, 1942, our strike-idle workers numbered about 52,000; and in November, 1943, they numbered 10 times as many."

"In November, 1942, we lost less than 130,000 man-days; but in November, 1943, we lost the enormous total of nearly 3,000,000 man-days."

"Doubtless there was merit on both sides of these arguments," the governor commented, "but the enemy rejoices in them as a sign of weakness and disunity."

Martin said that in the first two years of the war "able management, abundance of capital and skilled workers, backed by American will and enthusiasm, had done as much as Germany did in nine years, Russia in 20 and Japan in 25."

SERVICE TEAMS MAY TAKE PART IN SPIC MEET

At least four of the eight schools in the Southern Pennsylvania Interscholastic Conference will send track and field teams to Waynesboro Friday night, May 5, to compete in the South Penn Conference meet.

In addition to the events in the South Penn meet, three special events are being planned for service teams. Twenty-seven Army, Naval and Coast Guard stations have been invited to participate in the meet. At last three have already replied as being interested. It is expected that Fort Belvoir, Virginia; Olmstead Field, Middletown and Letterkenny Ordnance Depot will send teams here to compete in a special 100-yard dash, 220 yard dash and mile run. Individual trophies will be given the winners of the events.

In the South Penn meeting, Waynesboro will be host team to Gettysburg, Carlisle and Hanover. It is possible that at least one other team may be entered.

Waynesboro's season opens Friday when the team meets Gettysburg here in a dual meet.

Just Folks

HOME AND CHILDREN
My father often used to say when children he's discuss:

"If ours are happier away there's something wrong with us.
I'd think it shame my lifetime through if this should ever be: They'd rather eat a neighbor's food than stay with us for tea."

My father wasn't social wise; grave books he'd never read.
He thought the mother should be home to see her babies fed.
"It is a lifetime job," said he, "that parents all assume.
I'd rather keep the children's love, than keep a tidy room."

"I'd hate to think the neighbors gave what often we deny;
Our cookies kept on topmost shelves and theirs left handy by.
I'd think it shame if down the street lived gentler folks than we,
Who made of home a happy place where children liked to be."

"So have the cookies near at hand and give these rooms to fun.
Let children all be happy here until the day is done.
Let's keep this home with joy aglow and free from fret and fuss;
For should they rather elsewhere be the fault would lie with us."

Today's Talk

INVISIBLE BOUNDARIES

Will the coming of a "white peace" bring with it the consciousness of invisible boundaries? Always linked up with war is this stumbling block of boundaries. Destruction, destruction, blood and tears—to settle boundaries!

In the early twenties Stephen Graham and Vachel Lindsay, writers and poets, took a walking trip through the Rockies. Commenting upon the trip, Lindsay learned "that a Britisher and a United Stateser can cross the Canadian-American line together and discover that it is hardly there; can discover that an international boundary can be genuine and eternal and yet friendly. If there is one thing on which Stephen and I will agree is one thing on which Stephen and I will agree till the Judgment Day, it is that all the boundaries of the world should be open, and as happy as the Canadian-United States line."

What a vision to behold—a world without visible boundaries—friendly nations, brothers in the blood though perhaps not in color—but workers in one world that has room enough for all! It was one world to begin with, and was meant for all.

Great material holdings are no criterion of the character or inward worth either of an individual or a nation. Unconsciously the traveler goes from one boundary to another in the United States. It's because these states are friendly—a part of one great whole.

It's mistrust that puts up stakes and fences and high walls, fortifications and armed guards. Where there is trust, as Lindsay commented, boundaries are "hardly there." Should all the peoples of this earth suddenly die, there would be but one boundary to mark the cemetery—and it would be worldwide in scope!

It is written in the Bible: "What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" Likewise, what does it profit a nation to gain territory to stake out as its own, and thereby lose the trust, confidence, and co-operation of its next-door neighbor? Is it worth the price of hatred and bloody wars?

If you think that war settles boundaries, study the map of the world for the last one hundred years, and count up the wars!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject, "Keep a Steady Pace."

Out Of The Past

He has been fitting up the building in a very comfortable manner; and we hope his exertions may be crowned with complete success.

The Suffrage Amendment.—The work goes bravely on. New York has ratified the Constitutional Amendment to secure Manhood Suffrage, and twenty-one States now stand on the record as approving it, including Pennsylvania.
The victory in Connecticut has virtually settled the fate of the amendment, and that in the interest of Right and Justice.

But seven more States are needed to make the Amendment part of the National Constitution.

Sale.—Hon. Moses McClean has sold his farm a short distance north of town, 162 Acres, to James J. Wills, Esq., of this place, for $8,000 cash.

The Velocipede.—The Velocipede School in Agricultural Hall has excited a good deal of interest by reason of the novelty. A good deal of fun has been occasioned from day to day by the mishaps of awkward experiments, but a number of our young men have made creditable progress and bid fair to become good velocipedists.

Aurora Borealis.—On Thursday night, there was a very brilliant display of auroral lights. The working of the telegraph wires during the day indicated an unusual quantity of electricity in the atmosphere. As soon as the shades of evening set in, the auroral flashes developed themselves, lighting up the northern heavens, changing in hue and brilliancy from time to time, until about 11 o'clock, when the display reached a remarkable extent and grandeur—white sheets of waving light flamed up from all parts of the horizon, with long ribbon like streamers, meeting at a point a few degrees south of the zenith forming a corona and presenting a grand but indescribable effect. The streamers and waves of light changed rapidly in form, color and position, the flashes appearing in quick succession.
The display seems to have been noticed in all parts of the country.

MACARTHUR IS NOT "SEEKING" U. S. PRESIDENCY

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, April 17 (AP)—Gen Douglas MacArthur today replied to public questions stirred by his letters to a Nebraska Republican congressman on the presidential campaign with the statement, "I have not sought the office nor do I seek it," and said his "sole ambition" is to help win the war.

MacArthur's written statement, however, left wide open the question of whether he would accept the Republican presidential nomination if it were offered or if he were "drafted" as a candidate. In this regard he was cryptically silent.

His statement also declared that his letters to the Nebraska, Rep. A. L. Miller, released for publication by the congressman who is active in the draft-MacArthur campaign, "were never intended for publication."

Not "Critical"
"I entirely repudiate the sinister interpretation that they were intended as criticism of any political philosophy or of any personage in high office," MacArthur said.

The correspondence, made public by Miller last Thursday, included letters in which the congressman urged that MacArthur "permit the people of this country to draft you." Miller sharply criticized the administration and said that there was what he termed "a tremendous ground swell in this country against the New Deal."

In one reply MacArthur said he "unreservedly" agreed with "the complete wisdom and statesmanship of your comments." In another he said that Miller's description of conditions in the United States "is a sobering one indeed and is calculated to arouse the thoughtful." He warned that "we must not inadvertently slip into the same condition internally as the one which consideration of every patriot" he "we fight externally."

Beyond Sphere of Decision
MacArthur said in his statement today that perusal of his letters "will show any fair minded person that they were neither politically inspired nor intended to convey blanket approval of the congressman's views."

MacArthur said today he had not received "Congressman Miller's third letter in which he is reported to have advised me to announce my candidacy for the office of President of the United States."

"The high constitutional processes of our representative and Republican form of government in which there resides with the people the sacred duty of choosing and electing their chief executive are of so imposing a nature as to be beyond the sphere of any individual's coercion or decision," MacArthur's statement said.

"I can only say, as I have said before, I have not sought the office nor do I seek it. I have devoted myself exclusively to the conduct of the war. My sole ambition is to assist our beloved country to win this vital struggle by the fulfillment of such duty as has been, or may be, assigned to me."

TOGA SCHOOL IS CAN LEADER

Harrisburg, April 17 (AP)—The 18-pupil Broughton school Wellsboro, Toga county, led all Pennsylvania schools last month in the per-pupil collection of prepared tin cans for war needs, the state defense council's salvage committee reported today.

The school rounded up 33,737 cans, an average of 1,874 per pupil, to top second-place Sheridan school, Porter township, Schuylkill county, which collected 36,147 cans, or an average of 573.7 for each of its 63 pupils.

The committee also announced that war bonds were awarded to these three pupils who reported the biggest individual tin can collections. Robert Readinger, Remington, Schuylkill county, 22,656 cans; Fred Honeywell, Warrior Run, Luzerne county, 21,560, and Roy Brinde, Chambersburg, R. D. 6, 17,671.

Although the Broughton school turned in the best per pupil collection, Luzerne county schools led all other counties with a total of 1,958,068 of the 9,792,633 cans collected by state schools in March. Berks county, with 773,096, was second; Allegheny, 706,112, was third; and Schuylkill, 543,598, was fourth. Tin can salvage flags were awarded to 62 schools. Those collecting 10,000 or more cans include Lincoln school, Gettysburg, 28,803 cans.

SHOO SHOO BABY
New York, (AP) — Detective Charles "Dawner" entered a pool room, corralled 30 cue-wielders and said: "Take off your shoes."

After examining the footwear, he arrested five youths on charges of breaking into a Madison Avenue store and stealing 100 pairs of shoes.

SCHOOL'S OUT
Richmond, Ind. (AP) — The shameless dream of some youngsters that the schoolhouse might burn down has come true for grade school pupils of nearby Boston who were told to start their summer vacation prematurely after fire destroyed their school and gymnasium.

MANY ARE CALLED
Scottsbluff, Neb. (AP) — After seven months at White Horse, Yukon territory, Frank Fillingham stepped off the train here and walked into the depot just as someone called his name.
It was his draft board clerk, who was checking men as they entrained for Denver to take their preinduction examinations.
Fillingham, 27, was given time to rush home, say hello to his wife and two children and return in time to catch the train to Denver—where he was accepted for the Army.

CLOSE CALL
Chicago, (AP) — Bernard Arand saw a small cardboard carton in an alley and was tempted for a moment to give it a kick. Instead, he opened it, and found its contents labeled "Nitro-Starch—high explosive Property of the Corps of Engineers, United States Army."
Police Sgt. Marshall Pidgeon of the bomb squad said the explosive was sufficient to have wrecked the entire block.

Promotion Instead Of Scotch For Bong

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, April 17 (AP)—Gen Douglas MacArthur doesn't consider "liquor or spirituous wines as appropriate recognition" for Maj. Richard I. Bong's record-breaking feat of shooting down 27 enemy planes, so the Poplar, Wis., ace will not get the case of Scotch whisky promised by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker to the first American pilot to exceed his World War I record of 26 planes shot down.

Instead, MacArthur indicated Bong's promotion from Captain to Major on the day his record was confirmed was a more proper recognition.

Bong is not a drinking man but at an advanced Allied air base he told Associated Press war correspondent Olen Clements he had thanked Rickenbacker for the promised Scotch and hoped it could be rushed "out here for the boys." But that was before MacArthur's decision.

Three Women Die In Pittsburgh Fire

Pittsburgh, April 17 (AP)—Three women, two of them 30 years of age, perished in a fire which destroyed a three-story rooming house yesterday.

They were Mrs. Mary A. Young, landlady, and two roomers, Miss Lillian Sprague, and the latter's 45-year-old niece, Miss Belle Pyfer.

Mrs. Young, trapped by flames after vainly attempting to warn the two others on the third floor, succeeded in arousing a third roomer, George Adams, 72, who escaped. He was treated in Allegheny General hospital for shock and smoke inhalation.

Six others in first floor rooms got out safely through a back stairway.

INFLATIONARY GAP WHITTLED BY TAXES, BONDS

By JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Remember when the words "inflationary gap" used to pop up so frequently in public discussions of war-inflated prices and incomes?

This term is applied to the theoretical figure—in billions of dollars—representing the difference between the estimated amount of money in the hands of individuals and the estimated price value of civilian goods available for purchase.

One of the principal arguments of the higher-tax proponents has been that bigger taxes were needed to "drain off" the money in this "inflationary gap."

Mentioned No More
Otherwise, they said people would use this money to "bid up prices." But you don't hear much mention of "inflationary gap" any more, even though there's a flourishing black market in some goods.

Now comes the board of governors of the Federal Reserve Bank system, which says in its April bulletin, "This surplus spending power has been added to the public's large holdings of liquid assets (savings, bonds, stocks) and has not been used to bid actively for the available supply of goods."

What happened?
This result is due principally, the board says, to "increased taxes, government controls over prices and rationing, war loan drives, many types of goods, and a public attitude that has favored saving rather than spending."

This mention of taxes squares with the new feeling at the Treasury—reflecting the views of Congress—that taxation has to be based on practical ability to pay rather than abstract thinking along "inflationary gap" lines.
"It is important," the board continues, "that the controls and the inducements to save be continued in full force during the war period."

Between June 1, 1942, and April 1, 1943, Britain turned over to U. S. armed forces in England supplies which would have taken more than 1,360,000 ship tons if brought across the Atlantic.

INJUNCTION FOR PRESS GRANTED IN AUSTRALIA

Sydney, Australia, April 17 (AP)—The commonwealth high court late today granted an interim injunction sought by the Sydney daily Telegraph to restrain the government censorship authorities from suspending publication of the newspaper because it printed two articles in its Saturday editions.

The articles, banned by censors, were printed in all four Sydney daily newspapers to test the censor's ban. All four were suspended. A federal cabinet hearing called for today to consider the entire censorship problem has been postponed because government leaders said it would be improper to discuss the question while it was before the high court.

Bond Drive Crippled
The story on which the Telegraph's two articles was based has been printed in other capitals but Australian censorship does not permit the publication of specific details of the censorship controversy.

The four newspapers charged the articles were censored under a policy which amounts to political censorship and publishers said today's court action constitutes vindication of their position.

Sydney citizens and residents throughout New South Wales went virtually newspaperless and remained ignorant of the reason for the dispute because radio reports were likewise censored.

The Australian war loan drive now underway is largely dependant on publicity and government officials reportedly are anxious to settle the dispute so the drive will not suffer.

Bishop Hughes Ill With Pneumonia

Altoona, Pa., April 17 (AP)—Bishop Edwin Holt, Hughes, 77, acting head of the eastern Methodist conference, who is critically ill with pneumonia, was reported "somewhat improved" this morning by attendants at Altoona hospital.

Bishop Hughes was taken to the hospital last night. He had been suffering from a severe cold while presiding at the Central Pennsylvania conference of the Methodist church here.

The bishop, who had retired, was recalled to active service following the death of Bishop Adna Leonard, killed in an air crash last June.

Special Session To Be Political-Free

Harrisburg, April 17 (AP)—Legislative leaders hope the lawmakers will leave politics at home when they come to the capitol for the May 1 special session to strip the absentee voters law of red tape.

Governor Martin has emphasized that the call for the extra session will be brief and limited to liberalization of military balloting, and predicted the legislators should wind up their business here in a week.

Suggested basic changes in the absentee voting act have been agreed upon by rival party legislative chiefs and await further approval of a bi-partisan committee meeting next Thursday with the governor.

PRIZE SUBSIDIES
Harrisburg, April 17 (AP)—State AAA officials advise farmers that acceptance of federal subsidies does not constitute a lien against them and added that the subsidy plan "has been imminently successful" in stabilizing food-wage prices.

Can You Picture PENNSYLVANIA without its Fire Fighters?

Maybe you've never had to call the fire department — maybe you never will. But it's a mighty comforting thought to know that it's there, ready night and day to save you and yours from one of man's most treacherous and terrifying enemies.

The heroic work done by fire fighters in so many of the towns and cities of our Allies, which have been showered with incendiaries and explosives, is drama itself. The job of our own firemen right here at home in Pennsylvania may be less spectacular but it's no less important—particularly to us. Yet most of us give little thought to this vital safeguard of our everyday life — until an emergency comes along.

There are 4,601 men in Pennsylvania whose full-time job is the protection of lives and property of the citizens of this State. These are the regular firemen—but there are thousands more who are ready to do their share at a moment's notice, the volunteer firemen.

To all of these valiant men, we of the Greyhound Lines pay sincere tribute. We're proud of these fellow-citizens—thankful for them, too. And we feel we have at least one thing in common with them. They're fighting hard to improve the safety record of our State and so are we. In these tense and busy days, we feel that Greyhound, in providing safe, convenient transportation between this community and its good neighbors, is also playing its part in making Pennsylvania a safer, happier place to live.

An Evening Thought

There is a wide difference between speaking to deceive, and being silent to be impenetrable—Voltaire.

Just Folks

HOME AND CHILDREN

My father often used to say when children he's discussed:

"If ours are happier away there's something wrong with us."

I'd think it shame my lifetime through if this should ever be: They'd rather eat a neighbor's food than stay with us for tea."

My father wasn't social wise; grave books he'd never read.

He thought the mother should be home to see her babies fed.

"It is a lifetime job," said he, "that parents all assume."

I'd rather keep the children's love, than keep a tidy room.

"I'd hate to think the neighbors gave what often we deny; Our cookies kept on topmost shelves and theirs left handy by."

I'd think it shame if down the street lived gentler folks than we.

Who made of home a happy place where children liked to be.

"So have the cookies near at hand and give these rooms to fun."

Let children all be happy here until the day is done.

Let's keep this home with joy aglow and free from fret and fuss;

For should they rather elsewhere be the fault would lie with us."

Today's Talk

INVISIBLE BOUNDARIES

Will the coming of a "white peace" bring with it the consciousness of invisible boundaries? Always linked up with war is this stumbling block of boundaries. Desolation, destruction, blood and tears—to settle boundaries!

In the early twenties Stephen Graham and Vachel Lindsay, writers and poets, took a walking trip through the Rockies. Commenting upon the trip, Lindsay learned "that a Britisher and a United Stateser can cross the Canadian-American line together and discover that it is hardly there; can discover that an international boundary can be genuine and eternal and yet friendly. If there is one thing on which Stephen and I will agree is one thing on which Stephen and I will agree till the Judgment Day, it is that all the boundaries of the world should be open, and as happy, as the Canadian-United States line."

What a vision to behold—a world without visible boundaries—friendly nations, brothers in the blood though perhaps not in color—but workers in one world that has room enough for all! It was one world to begin with, and was meant for all.

Great material holdings are no criterion of the character or inward worth either of an individual or a nation. Unconsciously the traveler goes from one boundary to another in the United States. It's because these states are friendly—a part of one great whole.

It's mistrust that puts up stakes and fences and high walls, forts, cannon and armed guards. Where there is trust, as Lindsay commented, boundaries are "hardly there." Should all the peoples of this earth suddenly die, there would be but one boundary to mark the cemetery—and it would be worldwide in scope!

It is written in the Bible: "What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Likewise, what does it profit a nation to gain territory to stake out as its own, and thereby lose the trust, confidence, and co-operation of its next-door neighbor? Is it worth the price of hatred and bloody wars?"

If you think that war settles boundaries, study the map of the world for the last one hundred years and count up the wars!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject "Keep a Steady Pace."

The Suffrage Amendment.—The work goes bravely on. New York has ratified the Constitutional Amendment to secure Manhood Suffrage, and twenty-one States now stand on the record as approving it, including Pennsylvania.

The victory in Connecticut has virtually settled the fate of the amendment, and that in the interest of Right and Justice.

But seven more States are needed to make the Amendment part of the National Constitution.

Survey.—The Survey of the Gettysburg Battlefield has been resumed by Lieut. Chase, with his corps of engineers. It will require several months to complete the Survey.

Sale.—Hon. Moses McClean has sold his farm a short distance north of town, 162 Acres, to James J. Wills, Esq., of this place, for $8,000 cash.

The Velocipede.—The Velocipede School in Agricultural Hall has excited a good deal of interest by reason of the novelty. A good deal of fun has been occasioned from day to day by the mishaps of awkward experiments, but a number of our young men have made creditable progress and bid fair to become good velocipedists.

Aurora Borealis.—On Thursday night, there was a very brilliant display of auroral lights. The working of the telegraph wires during the day indicated an unusual quantity of electricity in the atmosphere. As soon as the shades of evening set in, the auroral flashes developed themselves, lighting up the northern heavens, changing in hue and brilliancy from time to time, until about 11 o'clock, when the display reached a remarkable extent and grandeur—white sheets of waving light flamed up from all parts of the horizon, with long ribbon like streamers, meeting at a point a few degrees south of the zenith, forming a corona and presenting a grand but indescribable effect. The streams and waves of light changed rapidly in form, color and position, the flashes appearing in quick succession.

The display seems to have been noticed in all parts of the country.

SHOO SHOO BABY

New York, (AP) — Detective Charles Dawner entered a pool room, corralled 30 cue-wielders and said: "Take off your shoes."

After examining the footwear, he arrested five youths on charges of breaking into a Madison Avenue store and stealing 100 pairs of shoes.

SCHOOL'S OUT

Richmond, Ind. (AP) — The shameless dream of some youngsters that the schoolhouse might burn down has come true for grade school pupils of nearby Boston who were told to start their summer vacation prematurely after fire destroyed their school and gymnasium.

MacArthur said today he had not received "Congressman Miller's third letter in which he is reported to have advised me to announce my candidacy for the office of President of the United States."

"The high constitutional processes of our representative and Republican form of government in which there resides with the people the sacred duty of choosing and electing their chief executive are of so imposing a nature as to be beyond the sphere of any individual's coercion or decision," MacArthur's statement said.

"I can only say, as I have said before, I have not sought the office nor do I seek it. I have devoted myself exclusively to the conduct of the war. My sole ambition is to assist our beloved country to win this vital struggle by the fulfillment of such duty as has been, or may be, assigned to me."

Three Women Die In Pittsburgh Fire

Pittsburgh, April 17 (AP)—Three women, two of them 50 years of age, perished in a fire which destroyed a three-story rooming house yesterday.

They were Mrs. Mary A. Young, landlady, and two roomers, Miss Lillian Sprague, and the latter's 45-year-old niece, Miss Belle Pyfer.

Mrs. Young, trapped by flames after vainly attempting to warn the two others on the third floor, succeeded in arousing a third roomer, George Adams, 72, who escaped. He was treated in Allegheny General hospital for shock and smoke inhalation.

Six others in first floor rooms got out safely through a back stairway.

PARATROOPERS CLOSE GRIP ON JAPS IN BURMA

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ

Associated Press War Editor
Air-borne Allied troops have landed 60 miles from Mandalay to clamp another death grip around Japan's North Burma communications. "The Imphal Plain is entirely in our hands" and the Allied counter-offensive against the Japanese which threatens the Bengal Assam railroad in India is making "satisfactory progress," Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten reported today from his new headquarters in Ceylon.

The confident picture of Allied operations in the Southeast Asia command dispelled some of the vagueness and pessimism surrounding the official communications when the command was located at New Delhi, India, and subject to the censorship and military supervision of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, Indian commander-in-chief. Mountbatten's new Ceylon headquarters remove him from Auchinleck's supervision and bring him within direct contact with the Allied Naval forces in the Indian ocean.

Straddle Railway
British - Indian glider troops floated down on two positions 60 and 70 miles from Mandalay and now straddle the Mandalay-Mitkyina railroad which Japan uses to supply her forces driving into India. Other Allied troops have been operating around the trail terminus, Mitkyina, for several weeks.

Although enemy soldiers ring the jungles bordering the Imphal Plain. Allied troops, probably reinforced by air, still command the Plain and city of Imphal, capital of the Indian State of Manipur on the Burma border.

Japanese attackers have suffered very heavy losses and important positions have been regained north of Imphal, a late Allied communique reported. Gains were also scored in the hills bordering the rice paddies northeast of Imphal.

Tokyo radio conceded the Imphal defenders had been strengthened by air-borne reinforcement but said the battle for the base will reach its climax in a few days.

And the situation was no better for the Nipponese on the 5,000-mile ocean front extending from the Kurile Islands in the north to tropical New Guinea, where Allied fliers raked the Japanese base of Aitape with a 284-ton bombing assault, raising to more than 3,000 tons of explosive weight poured on coastal New Guinea bases in two weeks.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in Pearl Harbor his Pacific fliers pounded Matswa Island in the Kuriles for the fifth consecutive day and other airmen struck at Ponape, Truk, Pakin, Oroluk and Ulul, in the Caroline Islands and four objectives in the Marshalls. A Navy search plane attacked Nauru Island south of the Marshalls.

A small tanker was sunk near Ponape and the ship's two escort vessels were beached.

ESCAPE from PARIS

by Marion McClure Stewart

Chapter 25

Karl Von Egert, enraged at Adrienne's resistance, left his suite shortly after she had fled and went to one of the government restaurants reserved for army officers. He lingered until dusk fell, drinking one glass of champagne after another. He was taciturn and repelled the attempts of several acquaintances who would have joined him.

He had imbibed so freely that on leaving the restaurant he found his gait was not as steady as usual and he was obliged to walk slowly. He decided to go to one of the questionable night clubs on the Boulevard Sebastopol. Had his senses been more alert he would not have failed to notice two men watching outside the restaurant had followed him in the shadowed light of the evening.

On turning from the Boulevard Hausmann into the Boulevard Sebastopol he caught sight of a man crouching in a doorway, and saw too late the barrel of a revolver pointing at him. Two shots rang out and Von Egert fell heavily to the ground. Before a gendarme on a motorcycle arrived in an answer to the shots, both men had disappeared. The gendarme saw the Kapitan was dead.

In the meanwhile Pierre Dussault and Madame Dupont had spent hours of agonized suspense at the cafe since learning that Adrienne had been arrested. This information the latter had obtained from the concierge, returning at M. Dussault's request when Adrienne failed to appear by noon. In the late afternoon Gabor was sent to summon Raoul whose anxiety over Adrienne surmounted any disturbance he may have felt from his own name heading the list of suspected persons.

"I can't forgive myself for letting her undertake that mad project," Dussault shook his head ominously. He had scarcely spoken when they were all startled to hear a key turn in the lock of the side door. The next moment Adrienne stood there smiling at them.

"My child!" exclaimed her uncle holding out his arms to her. "They did not harm you! Tell us everything."

"It will be better to go below. Then nothing can be heard," said Raoul, his eyes alight.

There was a breathless silence while Adrienne recounted the happenings of the preceding evening and subsequently the events of the day with the exception of the arrival of Von Egert's gift and her adventure at the hotel.

"You have had a narrow escape child," commented her uncle gravely. "For some reason Herr Schaffer evidently decided to release you, but you will be under constant surveillance and in danger from now on. However, my arrangements are now complete, and it will be possible for you and Raoul to leave Paris at daybreak tomorrow. I will outline my plan for you both later."

He phoned Gestapo Headquarters and ordered his assistant, Siegmund Stefan, to report to him immediately.

Stefan came and listened intently while Schafer briefly stated what had taken place at the Cafe du Barry.

Stefan nodded grimly. "It is quite plain she had accomplices in the cafe."

"That is what I think also," Schafer said. "Therefore, I will cross-examine her personally; if necessary to employ stronger methods to get results. I shall rest for two hours, then you will send her here."

"I am afraid that is impossible," He hesitated. "The girl is no longer at headquarters. I was obliged to release her a half hour ago."

British lend-lease to the United States totalled more than one and a half billion dollars by the end of 1943.

PARATROOPERS CLOSE GRIP ON JAPS IN BURMA

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
Associated Press War Editor

Air-borne Allied troops have landed 60 miles from Mandalay to clamp another death grip around Japan's North Burma communications, "the Imperial Plain is entirely in our hands" and the Allied counter-offensive against the Japanese which threatens the Bengal Assam railroad in India is making "satisfactory progress," Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten reported today from his new headquarters in Ceylon.

The confident picture of Allied operations in the Southeast Asia command dispelled some of the vagueness and pessimism surrounding the official communiques when the command was located at New Delhi, India, and subject to the censorship and military supervision of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, Indian commander-in-chief. Mountbatten's new Ceylon headquarters remove him from Auchinleck's supervision and bring him within direct contact with the Allied Naval forces in the Indian ocean.

British - Indian glider troops floated down on two positions 60 and 70 miles from Mandalay and now straddle the Mandalay-Myitkyina railroad which Japan uses to supply her forces driving into India. Other Allied troops have been operating around the trail terminus, Myitkyina, for several weeks.

Although enemy soldiers ring the jungles bordering the Imperial Plain, Allied troops, probably reinforced by air, still command the Plain and city of Imphal, capital of the Indian State of Manipur on the Burma border.

Japanese attackers have suffered very heavy losses and important positions have been regained north of Imphal, a late Allied communique reported. Gains were also scored in the hills bordering the rice paddies northeast of Imphal.

Tokyo radio conceded the Imphal defenders had been strengthened by air-borne reinforcement but said the battle for the base will reach its climax in a few days.

And the situation was no better for the Nipponese on the 5,000-mile ocean front extending from the Kurile Islands in the north to tropical New Guinea, where Allied forces raked the Japanese base of Aitape with a 284-ton bombing assault, raising to more than 3,000 tons of explosive weight poured on coastal New Guinea bases in two weeks.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in Pearl Harbor his Pacific raiders pounded Matsua island in the Kuriles for the fifth consecutive day and other armen struck at Ponape, Truk, Pakin, Oroluk and Ulul, in the Caroline Islands and four objectives in the Marshall Islands.

A small tanker was sunk near Ponape and the ship's two escort vessels were beached.

ESCAPE from PARIS

by Marion McClure Stewart

Chapter 25
Karl Von Egert, enraged at Adrienne's resistance, left his suite shortly after she had fled and went to one of the government restaurants reserved for army officers. He lingered until dusk fell, drinking one glass of champagne after another. He was taciturn and repelled the attempts of several acquaintances who would have joined him.

He had imbibed so freely that on leaving the restaurant he found his gait was not as steady as usual and he was obliged to walk slowly. He decided to go to one of the questionable night clubs on the Boulevard Sebastopol. Had his senses been more alert he would not have failed to notice two men watching outside the restaurant had followed him in the shadowed light of the evening.

On turning from the Boulevard Hausman into the Boulevard Sebastopol he caught sight of a man crouching in a doorway, and saw too late the barrel of a revolver pointing at him. Two shots rang out to the ground. Before a gendarme on a motorcycle arrived in an answer to the shots, both men had disappeared. The gendarme saw the Kapitan was dead.

In the meanwhile Pierre Dussault and Madame Dupont had spent hours of agonized suspense at the cafe since learning that Adrienne had been arrested. This information the latter had obtained from the concierge, returning at M. Dussault's request when Adrienne failed to appear by noon. In the late afternoon Gabor was sent to summon Raoul whose anxiety over Adrienne surmounted any disturbance he may have felt from his own name heading the list of suspected persons.

"I can't forgive myself for letting her undertake that mad project," Dussault shook his head ominously. He had scarcely spoken when they were all startled to hear a key turn in the lock of the side door. The next moment Adrienne stood there smiling at them.

"My child!" exclaimed her uncle holding out his arms to her. "They did not harm you! Tell us everything."

"It will be better to go below. Then nothing can be heard," said Raoul, his eyes alight.

There was a breathless silence while Adrienne recounted the happenings of the preceding evening and subsequently the events of the day with the exception of the arrival of Von Egert's gift and her adventure at the hotel.

"You have had a narrow escape child," commented her uncle gravely. "For some reason Herr Schafer evidently decided to release you, but you will be under constant surveillance and in danger from now on. However, my arrangements are now complete, and it will be possible for you and Raoul to leave Paris at daybreak tomorrow. I will outline my plan for you both later."

He turned grimly to Raoul.

Stefan came and listened intently while Schafer briefly stated what had taken place at the Cafe du Barry.

Stefan nodded grimly.

"It is quite plain she had accomplices in the cafe."

"That is what I think also," Schafer said. "Therefore I will cross-examine her personally; if necessary to employ stronger methods to get results. I shall rest for two hours, then you will send her here."

"I am afraid that is impossible." He hesitated. "The girl is no longer at headquarters. I was obliged to release her a half hour ago."

British lend-lease to the United States totalled more than one and a half billion dollars by the end of 1943.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Have been intending to write you for some time and tell you how much I appreciate receiving The Times. Being a Gettysburg boy, and educated in the public and high school of that city, I am always anxious to read about the friends at home.

I was inducted into the service from Detroit, Michigan, where I worked in the Ford plant. I joined the Seabees and was sent to Camp Peary, Louisiana, where I was stationed until the 17th of March. From there I was sent to Port Huene, California. I like it out here very much. The scenery around here is beautiful.

The service has done a lot for me and I am proud to be one of Uncle Sam's boys. My brother, Milton, is stationed out here at Port Chicago, California. We have not met but hope to in the near future. It has been three years since we saw each other, and what a happy meeting that will be. My youngest brother, Joe, is stationed at Camp Shanks, New York, so you see we are doing our bit to help win this war. Thanking you for sending me the paper through my mother, I am

Yours,
SK 3-C WILLIAM C. PENN,
26th Spec. Batt., Hqd. Co.,
ABD, Port Huene, California.

The beginnings of life insurance are found in the Roman collegia and guilds of medieval times.

A Tornado Passed This Way

In this mass of wreckage in Royston, Ga., are the ruins of eight homes destroyed by a tornado that struck the town in the early morning. Convicts are helping clear the debris. At least 11 persons were killed in Royston, and scores were injured. Miss Luella Phillips and her brother Norman were buried in the ruins at right. They were seriously injured. (AP Wirephoto.)

SOUTH CAROLINA AND GEORGIA HIT BY GALE SUNDAY

Atlanta, April 17 (AP)—Weary rescue workers, digging into the wreckage left by a tornado that roared over a 100-mile strip in northeastern Georgia and western South Carolina early Sunday, fixed the death toll today at 38, with more than 300 persons injured.

Twenty-one deaths were reported in Georgia—12 in the Royston area and nine in the Nuburg community of Hart county. Seventeen persons were killed in South Carolina.

American Red Cross representatives said that at least 147 homes were destroyed and 103 homes damaged.

Area Hit Before
Striking around midnight, Sunday, the storm was likened by many to a gigantic, death-dealing ball, which bounded from one community to another, leaving untouched spaces between. Others said that it "roared like an express train," and was accompanied by heavy rain and electrical display.

The first area hit was in the vicinity of Gainesville, in Hall county, Georgia, where in 1936 another tornado killed 183 persons and injured more than 200. The storm then rushed on across the Georgia line into South Carolina, striking at least seven places with resultant death and destruction of property.

Hospital Unroofed
Residents of Royston, a town of 1,400 in Franklin county, Georgia, where 12 were killed, said the storm dipped into a row of houses three blocks from the business section, leveling eight in line. Five persons died in one residence there.

Doctors, hampered by power failure, used flashlights in treating the injured. Mrs. Alvin Dove, brought to a hospital shortly before the tornado struck, gave birth to a baby during the storm.

Principal damage at Greenwood, South Carolina, aside from houses levelled, was to the two-story brick hospital. This building was unroofed and so heavily damaged that all patients, except a few on the first floor, had to be evacuated.

Flashes of Life

KNOW ALL ABOUT FLOODS
Indianapolis (AP)—Water works executives of three Indiana cities were to have told their experiences during the 1943 floods at a meeting of the Water Works association here, but they couldn't make the trip.

Wabash river floodwaters kept them at home.

CITY COWBOYS
Brigham, Utah, (AP)—With many of the regular cowboys gone to war, city riders will lend a hand this year in the wild horse roundup.

John Adams, cattleman-rancher, disclosed he had engaged the Weber county mounted Sheriff's posse, a riding organization, to participate in the spring roundup today at his ranch. More than 20,000 acres of ranch land will be covered.

The roundup, one of the west's few remaining affairs not given as a show, attracts many spectators.

DEMAND AGAINST SUPPLY
Los Angeles (AP)—Bidders set their own ceilings with no thought of the Office of Price Administration when the collector of customs auctioned several cases of Scotch whisky for non-payment of taxes or duty.

The first case went for $79.50. An Army officer paid $97 for each of the next two, and $107 for the third.

MEAT IN THE FARE BOX
Chicago (AP)—Red ration tokens—instead of dimes—are being slipped into coin registers in Chicago Motor Coach buses, drivers report.

A bus company spokesman said similar situations were reported by bus companies in other cities using similar fare registers.

The American Transit association has registered a complaint with the Office of Price Administration.

TWO ASPHYXIATED
Meadville, Pa., April 17 (AP)—Coroner Dr. Luther J. King today said asphyxiation caused the deaths of two Cochran men, Oakley Claire Moyer, 54, and John M. Reisinger, 55, missing since last Monday, whose badly decomposed bodies were found in a gas-filled cottage along French Creek in Crawford county.

SHEEP DOG WINS
Pittsburgh, April 17 (AP)—Champion King's messenger, an old English sheep dog owned by Lt. Stanley F. Kraft of Cleveland, was adjudged best of all classes at the Western Pennsylvania Kennel club show. Among class winners was Ch. Caldene Judson, an Irish setter owned by Dr. J. W. Calhoun, Philadelphia.

SAYS STATE CIO IS BACKING FDR

York, Pa., April 17 (AP)—President John A. Phillips of the Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council today reported "very strong sentiment among the local unions generally to promote endorsement of President Roosevelt for a fourth term."

"This matter will be considered" by the CIO Councils annual convention opening here tomorrow, the union official announced on his arrival to complete arrangements for the gathering.

Phillips said 750 delegates representing 300,000 workers in every part of the state will make the convention the largest in the history of the state organization.

He listed mobilizing of the council membership for political action in the approaching presidential election as a major job of the convention along with production for speedier winning of the war and mapping labor's part in peace-time development.
